two days previous to the trouble, but had not yet time to move out of the yamen. Shao was staying in the examination hall. When the insurgents, flushed with success, made a complete circuit around the city. they were met with a stubborn resistance on the part of the deputy magistrate, Tug. who raised a volunteer force of about one thousand strong and repuised every attempt to take the walls by assault. For three days the city held out, while local roughs were persistently spreading the rumor among the inhabitants that the city cannons could not be fired, and that the guns of the besiegers were most deadly in effect. The people were terribly scared, and at the same time provisions ran short. Although agitated by fear and harassed by hunger, the defenders stood nobly to their post in the desperate hope of an early rescue by imperial troops. The insurgents seized a favorable moment to send a large force, under cover of their own fire, to storm the city. The walls were low and were easily scaled. A bloody struggle ensued, resulting in favor of the attacking party. The leader was the first one to leap over, and, rushing straight to the magistrate's yamen, he first liberated all the prisoners, and then searched for the magistrate, Chon, and his family, but without success, as he and his family were conveyed in safety out of the city by a certain master of arts, who cut a road through the encircling enemy. The deputy magistrate was last seen fighting hand to hand against overwhelming odds. Nothing is known of his fate, but his wretched family was captured and taken to the mountains. The higher authorities dispatched one thousand soldier to the place. The latest report is that the insurgents have left the city, and are encamped on the bill.

The Council Overruled by a Woman. London, Dec. 10.—Dispatches from Pekin state that owing to the delay that occurred in getting the Mongolian tribes together, the plan of Li Hung Chang, the Viceroy, to surround the rebels, has not proved a success. Another battle has been fought, however, between the imperial troops and the rebels and the latter were routed and dispersed. The battle is believed to be the one concerning which the Chinese legation here received advices yesterday stating that the insurgents had suffered a most crushing defeat and that their annihilation was a question of only a short time. To-day's dispatches state that the Emperor of China has taken up the study of the English language. When it was annonneed that he was to be thoroughly instructed in that tongue the Tsung Li Yamen (council of state) opposed the idea to the full extent of its powers Then occurred an instance of the "petticoat government," which many claim will ultimately result in the overthrow of the Manchu dynasty. The dowager Empress took a hand in the matter and overruled the Tsung Li Yamen, and the young Emperor is, therefore, wrestling with the intricacies of the English tongue.

La Hung Chang has ordered the punishment of all who were engaged in the massacre of native Christians at Tien Tsin, and several rioters have been captured and executed, the Pekin government having granted leave for immediate beheading in all such cases.

Europeans at Shanghai are convinced that the anti-Christian riots are caused in many, if not all, cases by the hatred which the upper class of Chinese bear toward the foreigners, this batred being grounded on jealousy of foreign intelligence and influence. The literati are the promoters of the disturbances by their appeals to the ignorance of the people with stories about babes being killed and their eyes and lungs taken out for medicine. It is said that at Sanchi the murderers of the Belgian and native Christians carried about the mutilated body of a child in order to further excite the fury of the populace. The body was that of a child of Christian parents brutally killed by the rioters themselves. It served the purpose of exciting the people, and urging them on to further norrors and cruelties. This belief in the child-slaying propensity of the Christians appears to prevail everywhere that the missionaries have penetrated. The secret societies, it is asserted by the missionaries, are not aimed so much at foreigners as at the Chinese government, but the mandarins and literati try to give the impression to Europeans that the atrocities for which they are themselves responsible were perpetrated by the socities.

GENERAL FOREIGN NEWS.

A French Statesman Who Is Strongly Opposed to an Alliance with Russia.

Paris, Dec. 10 .- Senator Bartholemy Saint Hilaire, ex-Minister of Foreign Affairs, said to-day: "I am distinctly opposed to this attempt to draw France and Russia into an afliance. I can discover no common bond of union between the most enlightened people of Europe and a country that is almost eastern in its barbarity. The prevalent idea in France is that this alliance will enable her to regain the lost provinces, while she will help Russia to lay handson Constantinople. But while Russia will not fail to seize every opportunity of consolidating and increasing her empire, she would not embroil herself with Europe in order to please France, and, when satisfied, would repudiate any claims the latter power might have on her. Having made herself most formidable by the aid of France, Russia would not hesitate even to attack France if she thought she would advance her own interests by doing so. In my opinion the most natural and profitable alliance for France would be one with Eng-

In his opinion Salinas Landing, on the Bay of Monterey, would be the most suitable. He further states | Lincoln cavalry, serving until the summer that there is no reason why, in his opinion, the cable could not be laid. There would be several difficulties to overcome, but only such as are usual in laying deep-sea cables. The greatest depth reached was 3,100 fathoms, the average depth about 2,500. About 250 soundings have been taken on the way to the islands, the last one being off Diamond Head, where a depth of 350 fathoms was found. Reports are being received from all parts of the country, and they all concur in stating that the present gale is as severe, if not severer, than any of its predecessors. At Dorrington, in Shropshire, the chimney of an inn was blown down. The falling bricks crushed through the roof, and fell upon the landlord and his wife. The man was killed and his wife fatally injured. In the channel the gale is blowing with great fury, and a very nasty sea running. The French bark Leonore has been wrecked oil Mumble Head. Disgraceful Row at a Cemetery. Paris, Dec. 10 .- It has transpired that a most disgraceful scene occurred at the cemetery in which a large number of the victims of the disaster at the Puits de la Manufacture at St. Etenne were interred

Girodet, Mayor of St. Etienne, became involved in a dispute, it is surmised, in reference to the responsi-bility for the accident, and the language used by the two men was simply disgraceful. M. Girodet considered that he had been grossly insulted by M. Douvreleur, and after the burial services had been concluded he prepared a challenge to fight a duel and forwarded it to the vice-chairman. HORRIBLE ACT OF A MOTHER

Aeronaut Mangled by the Bursting of His Balloon in Mid-Air-Mrs. Maybrick Permitted to Talk with Her Mother.

MURDERED HER SON.

A Mother's Greed for Gold Results in a Horrible Tragedy-Joy Turned to Anguish.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. VIENNA, Dec. 11 .- A tragedy unparalleled in atrocity is reported from Wieselburg, a town of Hungary, twenty-one miles from Presburg. Sixteen years ago the son of a poor peasant living in the county of which Wieselburg is the capital, went to America. There by industry he gradually saved up about $3,000 in American money. er's home, the son on his way changed his money into the compact form of English sovereigns, of which he had six hundred. It was late when he arrived at his father's house. He did not immediately make himself known, but asked for hospitality as a stranger. The mother was not there at the moment, but the father recognized his son through the disguise of years and embraced him. The son being weary, retired to rest, after his father of the little fortune he had brought home with him. The son had the money in a bag near his bed. The father did not tell the mother when she came home of who the stranger was, resolving to wait until morning and then let the son reveal himself, to the joy and surprise of the mother. The latter got up during the night and examined the stranger's baggage, and, finding the golda larger sum than she had ever dreamed of-determined to possess it. The husband and father slept on. The mother smalthily got a knife and cut the throat of the stranger, killing him instantly. Then she took and hid the gold. When the father woke he found his son in a pool of blood on the bed. His cry of anguish and horror aroused the wife, who had expeeted to find her husband a ready accomlice in concealing the crime for the sake of the money. The father gasped out who the victim was. With one cry the murderess recled and fell dead.

BURST IN MID-AIR,

Aeronaut Killed by the Explosion of His Balloon 400 Feet Above Ground. BOMBAY, Dec. 10 .- An accident occurred here to-day by which a daring parachutist met a most herrible death in the sight of many persons. The victim was Lieutenant Mansfield, who had gained quite a reputation by his thrilling jumps from a balloon at a great altitude. Recently, in the presence of a large crowd, he made a balloon ascension and performed one of his wonderful feats. When he had reached the height of eleven thousand feet, Mansfield grasped his parachute and jumped from the car. The machine worked perfectly, and the daring aeronaut reached the ground in safety, amid the cheers of the spectators, who had watched his every movement with nervous anxiety. He subsequently announced that he would make another jump from a still greater height, and fixed upon to-day as the date for his risky experiment. The occasion took place at Victoria Gardens, where an immense crowd had assembled. Among the spectators was his Excellency, Lord Harris.

The preparations for the ascent were soon completed, and at a signal from the aeronaut the guy ropes were cut and the balloon was liberated amid a storm of cheering. When freed from the restraining ropes the huge air-ship shot upward with lightning-like velocity. The cheering at once ceased, as the crowd instantly perceived that something was wrong. The balloon had only reached a height of about four hundred feet when it burst with a loud and startling explosion, and immediately began to fall to the earth. Mansfield made the most desperate efforts to disengage the parachute from the collapsed balloon, but it had become entangled in the ropes, and the unfortunate man was soon forced to release his hold. The horrified spectators uttered cries of dismay as they saw his body come twirling towards them, and some of the women fainted at the terrible sight. Mansfield struck the ground with terrible force and was instantly killed, his body being crushed and mangled in a terrible manner. An investigation into the cause of the accident revealed the fact that in a previous descent the balloon had fallen into the sea and been somewhat damaged, and that the break then sustained had been improperly repaired, with the fatal result related.

MRS. FLORENCE MAYBRICK.

Her Mother, Baroness De Roque, Allowed Hour's Interview with the Prisoner.

LONDON, Dec. 10 .- One of the seldom granted privileges to life prisoners in British prisons was allowed to-day to Mrs. Florence Maybrick, the American woman who is serving in Woking prison a sentence of life imprisonment on the charge of poisoning her husband, James Maybrick, a Liverpool merchant. This privilege was permission for her to receive a visitor from the outside world. The visitor was her mother, Baroness Caroline de Roque, who lives at Rouen, France. The Baroness conveyed to her daughter intelligence of the efforts being made to restore her to her children and the world. She told her of the money that had been contributed by the people of the United States to pay counsel to attempt to procure her release, and of the Manchester fund which has been raised for the same purpose. The pale face of the beautiful convict lighted up with women of America for her in her dire distress. Much passed between mother and daughter that does not concern the outside world. When the prison officer notified the Baroness that her hour was up and that she must leave the prison she and her daughter, amid tears and sobs, tenderly embraced and kissed each other. The Baroness then withdrew and Mrs. Maybrick resumed her usual prison employment. After the Baroness De Roque had left the prison she was visited and interviewed regarding Mrs. Maybrick, The Baroness said she found her daughter looking ill. She is very weak and is frequently an inmate of the prison hospital. She is unable to sleep or to eat the coarse food given to the prisoners. During the course of their short conversation to-day Mrs. Maybrick said in despairing tones: "I have done nothing. Nothing has been proved against me. Why do they keep me here! Is it because I am a poor little American girl? I cannot understand why they will not give me mercy or pardon. I am deeply grateful to American friends for all they have done in my behalf." SPECIAL WORLD'S FAIR MONEY.

Novel Proposition Submitted to the Convention of State Organizations.

CHICAGO, Dec. 10 .- A novel proposition was put forth at to day's session of the joint convention of the Board of Control and representatives of State world's fair organizations. The originator was Vicepresident De Young, of the national commission. He wishes Congress to pass a law authorizing the coinage of something which will at the same time be legal tender and a souvenir of the Columbian Exposition. He offered the following:

Resolved. That it is the sense of the convention of the representatives of the boards of the various States of this Union that the government of the United States be requested, in commemoration of the Columbian exposition and the event it celebrates, to coin through its mints pieces of the value of 50 cents. This being the probable price of admission these coins can be used for that purpose and will make valuable souvenirs. The component parts of said coin to be of gold and silver in ratio. That 5,000,000 be struck and they be made legal tenders.

Resolved, That the secretary of this meeting be requested to forward this resolution to Congressman Springer, of Illinois, with a request that he introduce such a bill and present this resolution to Congress. "Now," said Mr. De Young, "I don't want you to jump into this matter without due consideration of it, so I move that it be read for information and then ordered brought up for a discussion at our next session." This action was taken. The greater remaining portion of the day was occupied in reports of progress from the various States, a visit to the grounds, and an address by Mrs. Palmer. There was a protest from a few of the States, including Missouri, on the dilatory action of the authorities in awarding locations so that work could be commenced on the State buildings. It is almost a foregone conclusion that the national board of control will refuse to concur with the local finance committee in the plan to ask Congress for an appropriation instead of a loan. All this afternoon the two bodies were closeted together on the subject. To-morrow another discussion of the momentous affair will be held.

IN THE HANDS OF A RECEIVER

Crawfordsville Water-Works Stock Appears to Have Been Very Largely Watered. Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind., Dec. 10. - The contest over the appointment of a receiver for the Crawfordsville Water-works Company has been decided by Judge Harney, and he has appointed Judge A. D. Thomas as receiver, whose duty it will be to collect pay for any stock not paid for, to satisfy a claim of $4,015, with interest, in favor of James B. Clow & Son, of Chicago. It seems that the water-works plant put in on borrowed cap-John G. Brown, of this city, and R. B. F. Peirce and E. B. Martindale, of Indianapolis, filed articles of association and formed the company with an original capital stock of $100,000, as fixed in the articles of incorporation. This amount was afterwards increased by order of the board of directors to $200,000. Brown, Peirce and Martindale each subscribed to the articles of incorporation for $1,000 of stock. They were the only stockholders, and it is claimed that this was the only part of the $200,000 stock ever subscribed and paid for. Afterwards a mertgage was executed on the plant to the American Loan and Trust Company, of New York, to secure the company's bonds to the amount of $150,000. These bonds and $197,000 of stock in the company were all turned over to Comegys & Lewis, of New York, for building the works, and it is alleged that a large part of the stock was afterwards returned to Brown, Peirce and Martindale, and that the $5,000 subscribed by these three men was paid up, as alleged, by services rendered in organizing the com-

After the original plant was put in J. B Clow & Son furnished all the material for an extension of the plant, for which no payment has ever been made. They recovered judgment for it, and now seek through a receiver, to collect from Brown Peirce and Martindale, and other stockholders, the amount of their claim, on the theory that no stock has ever been paid for, that the alleged payment was simulated, and that the parties holding certificates are liable for this debt. The entire plant in the meantime has been sold by the United States marshal to Coffin & Stanton, of New York, for $120,000, and is at present consolidated with the electric-light and gas company. The bond of the receiver was placed at $10,000, and if he qualifies he will sue to collect pay for this alleged unpaid stock, and the fight will be lively from now on. The case will attract attention, as it will be sought to bring out some points in the building of water-works not generally known.

FOR EVERY MAN TO READ, Some Modest Hints as to What Many Women Want for Christmas.

As Christmas comes on the faces of the masculine half of the human race are shadowed with perplexity. They don't know the shops, and the clerks in the shops pity their ignorance because they do not know what a woman wants. Of some things a woman never has enough fine handkerchiefs, curious bitoof jewelry, silk stockings and kid gloves. Neither does her soul grow weary of dainty bits of brac-a-brac, of quaint silver teaspoons, nor of curious brass candlesticks and lamps, no matter how thick they may stand about. Women always like etchings, too, or a good print, no matter how small they may be. So, also, with a bit of a statuette in bronze or marble, or in plaster. Even if a woman doesn't know about these things, she is flattered that you think she does. If she be your mother, or your sister, or your wife, you will not have to keep up any of these flattering little fictions, but can just give her a sensible, useful gift. Give your mother a new lizard or seal pocketbook, or giver her an eiderdown cover for her own bed, or a pair of fur-lined dressing shoes for the feet. Then there's a bit of real lace for the little gentlewoman, who will lay it away in rose sachets and think up a dozen ways to wear it and be happy

Perhaps your sister's leather card-case is a little worn at the edges, or she's lost her visiting list book. If she has set up her afternoon tea table, give her a copper kettle or a wrought-iron crane. If she hasn't set up the tea-table, give her one in bamboo, with the cunning little tea-stool that goes with it. If she hasn't a triple dressingmirror, give her that, by all means; there's nothing in all the world that comforts and sustains a woman's soul like being able to see her back hair, and her eyes, and her profile all at once. Or there's a party fan-an ostrich-feather one if you can, a gauze one if you can't-ora big black Spanish lace scarf to wear about her head of an evening. You can give your sister or your wife a Dresden china box for her dressing-table, with a big powder-puff inside of it, or a blue deft tray for hair-pins, or a little china night-lamp that will burn ten hours and has a screen before the flame.

If your wife spends your money anxiously and thriftily just go and buy her what she will cail "a foolish gift" that is "too fine for her." She will like it all the better because it's fine and because you thought to give it to her. One man brought tears of joy to the eves of his little wife by giving ber the prettiest, most expensive pair of house shoes he could find in New York. She had not bad such a pair since she bought her wedding shoes because they were so ex-

For your sweetheart, avoid buying perfumes, because any girl knows what she wants best herself; things to wear, because her father has the right to provide them for her; stationery, because she has her own distinctive style; jewelry, above all, because no man should give a woman jewelry unless they are betrothed or married. Make the gift useful, but not too useful; pretty, but not expensive; impersonal, yet delicately personal.

It is with pardonable pride in the effect of Republican tariff legislation that the President, in his message, says: "Rarely, if ever before in the history of the country, has there been a time when the proceeds of one day's labor or the product of one farmed acre would purchase so large an amount of those things that enter into the DUTRIE & HAMILTON, Principals qualities, but in this part of this article let it suffice to say that foot-ball is a discipline.
